

135 W. 41st St.,

April 25, 1887.

My Dear May:

I have yours of Saturday, and write in haste to say that if you will return to me the sheets of the review relating to the matter before us, I will incorporate the passage I sent you the other day, together with what you have suggested on the same topic, and return in time for the reading.

In relation to everything else, I will depend on Howland and thus relieve you.

I have just been asked to write sketch of Garrison for Appleton's Cyclopaedia of Biography. I shall do it gladly.

Can you fix the time, precisely or approximately, of the Foster campaign in the black belt of Ohio, Ind., and Ill.? Of course it included other laborers besides Fosters, did it not? It may be well however, not to mention names but to refer to the campaign as a Garrisonian enterprise. I will omit the word "half-baked."

Yours, on the jump,

Oliver Johnson.
